PREFACE

Antonio Vivaldi's (1678–1741) Magnificat in G minor RV 610/611 has been handed down to us in a total of four versions. The main differences between the first three are to be found in the make-up of the ensemble. While the earliest version (RV 610) requires four soloists (SSAT), a four-voice chorus, two oboes and strings, the second one (RV 610a) has a double chorus (S, T, SATB/S, S, A, SATB) and the third (RV 610b) makes do with just three soloists and a four-part chorus. In the fourth version (RV 611) however, instead of the solo parts and a chorus from RV 610 there are five new and in part extremely difficult arias, which Vivaldi wrote for female soloists of the Ospedale della Pietà, an orphanage in Venice with exacting musical standards. As the long-standing musical director of the Ospedale, Vivaldi gladly availed himself of such opportunities to demonstrate his pupils' exceptional artistic talents.

The musical text of our edition follows the first version RV 610 and at the appropriate places adds the subsequently exchanged arias of the fourth version RV 611. Although the latter is based on the autograph housed in the Biblioteca Nazionale Universitare, this does not signal any wish or capacity to present a critical edition. The piece can be played on any two-manual instrument. Directions for registration have deliberately not been included, as this will largely depend on chorus strength and of course the specification of the particular organ. However, it will certainly help to have the original tonal design in mind. This arrangement does not demand that the orchestral sound be imitated with the means of the organ; it would merely like to offer a self-contained version tailored to this medium of performance.
